

Wonderful ORGANIZING

Sasha Campbell, Owner, Organized Sunshine

We have heard that ONE is the loneliest number. However, there is power in that number.

When we think of organizing, we rarely think of one. We think of abundance. We think of mounds of clothes that seem impossible to scale. We think of countless pieces of paper that seem daunting to file. We think of being so overwhelmed that we don't even know where to begin! Let's eliminate those thoughts and change them into ONE organizing success story.

- Channel the power of one as you begin any organizing project.
- The proverbial thousand-mile journey applies to organizing too. Take that ONE step. Make it a priority. Start.
- Schedule time to organize and stick to it! Put aside ONE unit of time—one hour, one afternoon, one day. Small segments of time will add up to tackling any size project. Plan for enough time to meet your goals. Start small to ensure success!
- Decide to organize ONE space. One drawer. One shelf. One closet. Choosing a small job translates into a greater chance that you will complete the task.
- Keep ONE mission in mind. The task at hand is organizing your one space, NOT re-reading your son's third-grade essay or trying on your old prom dress. Focus on one task at a time. Save those other organizing adventures and trips down memory lane for another day.
- Use ONE style for a uniform look. Whether it is containers in your pantry or a certain type of hanger in your closet, sticking with one will make it aesthetically pleasing and calming.

Utilizing the power of ONE will make organizing fun, manageable, and rewarding. When you finish your project, you will feel you are #1. That is ONE-derful!
